As of my last knowledge update in September 2023, the Suzuki 110 was priced in Pakistan within a range of approximately PKR 189,000 to PKR 210,000. However, it's important to note that prices may have fluctuated due to various factors such as market demand, currency exchange rates, and inflation.

Factors Influencing Price

Several factors contribute to the pricing of the Suzuki 110 in Pakistan:

Model Year: Newer models tend to come with updated features and improvements, which may reflect in the price.

Features and Specifications: Variations in features, engine capacity, and additional accessories can affect the overall cost.

Market Demand: High demand can lead to an increase in prices, especially if there are limited units available.

Government Policies and Taxes: Changes in government policies, import duties, and taxes can impact the final retail price.

Dealer Margins: Dealerships may apply their own markups, influencing the final cost to consumers.

Economic Factors: Exchange rates, inflation rates, and economic stability can all contribute to price fluctuations.

Additional Costs

When purchasing a motorcycle, it's important to consider additional costs such as registration fees, insurance, and maintenance expenses. These costs can vary depending on location and individual preferences.
